Two local cardiologists, Jerrold Grodin, M.D., and John Schumacher, M.D., were among the seven cardiologists from Cardiology Consultants of Texas recognized by their peers as outstanding practitioners.

Grodin and Schumacher, who both practice at Cardiology Consultants of Texas' Waxahachie office, were named as "Texas Super Doctors" by Texas Monthly.

For the last several years, Cardiology Consultants of Texas has been well represented in Texas Monthly's "Texas Super Doctors."

"The selection of our physicians shows that our peers recognize the level of professionalism and high-quality care the cardiologists at Cardiology Consultants of Texas provide to its patients," said Schumacher, who is co-founder of the practice and co-chief of cardiology at Baylor University Medical Center.

According to Texas Monthly, its "Texas

Super Doctors" are chosen through a poll of doctors and nurses across the state as well as through independent research.

For the past 20 years, Cardiology Consultants of Texas has been providing patients in the Waxahachie community with the most advanced, thorough and compassionate cardiovascular care available.

One of the leading cardiology practices in the Southwest, CCT also serves patients at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, as well as clinics in Ennis and Greenville.
